

 &  COVID

@Threadslrish

   on COVID

Oct. 20, 2021 · 3 min read

T Read on Threader

1. "Why Did Journalist Joe O Shea Appear On RTE's Claire Byrne Show Inciting Hatred And Division"

Maybe it has something to do with an article he wrote in the Irish Mirror

New  1/14

Claire Byrne Live

@ClaireByrneLive

Journalist Joe O'Shea would like to see restrictions imposed on unvaccinated people.

#cblive

11:02 PM · Oct 18, 2021 · Twitter Media Studio

189 Retweets 365 Quote Tweets 955 Likes

2. On October 18th Joe O Shea appeared on RTE to give an interview on the topic of those who decided not to take the v. You can watch it here.

Joe was giving health advice but is also a convicted drink-driver who has no problem putting lives at risk

Claire Byrne Live
@ClaireByrneLive

Journalist Joe O'Shea would like to see restrictions imposed on unvaccinated people.

#cblive

Watch on Twitter

10:02 PM · Oct 18, 2021

 1K  2.1K  Copy link to Tweet

Tweet your reply

3. There is little doubt RTE invited him on to stir up hatred. He was a willing participant. Maybe he's trying to further his journalist career. Who knows. It backfired though as you can see by reading the comments below the video

Prior to his appearance he did pen this article

4. "Point is, we've had enough of these selfish, anti-vaxxers"

We've reached the stage now where we have to make life as difficult for Ireland's unvaccinated as they apparently want to make it for us. Don't want to get jabbed to protect yourself, or the people around you ?

selfish anti-vaxxers

WE'VE reached the stage now where we have to make life as difficult for Ireland's unvaccinated as they apparently want to make it for us.

Don't want to get jabbed to protect yourself or the people around you? OK, then you won't be wanting to eat or drink indoors, travel anywhere or be in the cinema, school or workplace.

Nobody can force you to do the right thing - but we can take measures to protect ourselves and our families. We've had enough, the rest of us want to get on with our lives.

There's still around 370,000 people in Ireland who have yet to get the jab.

A small proportion may have a good medical reason not to and some have yet to be reached but the Irish Pharmacy Union reckons around half of them are committed anti-vaxxers.

And if you don't know any of them, drop by your local hospital intensive care unit any time over the coming months as these cejjits will be cking the place out, blocking critical care for others. Almost two years into a deadly global pandemic, these are the hard-core cranks, the wildly misinformed and the outrageously selfish.

NEEDLE AND SPREAD
Covid vaccine

They are the kind of people who shout at healthcare workers and parade their ignorance and recklessness around in our streets, waving stupid signs.

They won't believe their own doctors and the world's leading scientists - but they will believe some cejit called @RealVaxTruther posting idiotic crap about 5G cranks and 5G cranks on Facebook.

They are the people who are willing to risk their health - and the health around them - with a deadly virus that has killed millions but reckon that the scientifically-proven vaccines that can protect us all from that virus are 'too risky'.

They are 'doing their own research' in the same way they presumably did the last time they got a tetanus shot.

Of course, when they actually end up fighting for their lives in hospital, they're using their last breath to say they should have been vaccinated.

Well, the country has had enough of them.

A survey this weekend found more than three-in-four Irish people think the unvaccinated should be subject to Covid restrictions to combat rising case numbers.

They've made their decision so they can stay home with their nutty Facebook posts while the rest of us get on with our lives.

✱ We grew up in a house without central heating and when anybody complained about the cold, my dad would kindly feck temper in our general direction and tell us to "jump and a bit". And this winter, away gas and electricity prices going, we may be going back to good old days, watching my Come along under a blankets.

SAX MACHINES
Cork Jazz
Festival launch

Bring music to our ears..

WE'LL likely find out today what's going to happen with the lifting of the restriction on Friday and hopefully it's good news.

It's not just that I'd fancy a bit of craic at the Guinness Jazz Festival in Cork (the perfect way to mark a return to some sort of normality).

I'd like my five-year-old daughter to be able to use the indoor play area at the park. I've been asking me about it every Saturday morning for 18 months.

And I'd like to see my friends and neighbours smiling on their faces, talking about Christmas plans, rather than interest rates.

5. OK, then you won't be wanting to eat or drink indoors, travel anywhere, or be in the cinema school or workplace. Nobody can force you to do the right thing, but we can take measures to protect ourselves and our families. We've had enough.

6. The rest of us want to get on with our lives, there's still around 370,000 people in Ireland have yet to get the jab. A small proportion may have a good medical reason not to and some have yet to be reached, but the Irish pharmacy union reckons around half of them are...

7...committed, anti-vaxxers. And if you don't know any of them drop by your local hospital Intensive Care Unit, anytime, over the coming months as these eejits will be blocking? the place out, blocking critical care for others.

Claire Byrne Live ✓
@ClaireByrneLive

Journalist Joe O'Shea would like to see restrictions imposed on unvaccinated people.

#cblive

11:02 PM · Oct 18, 2021 · Twitter Media Studio

189 Retweets 365 Quote Tweets 955 Likes

8. Almost two years into a deadly global pandemic, these are the hardcore cranks, the wildly misinformed and the outrageously selfish. They are the kind of people who shout at healthcare workers & parade their ignorance and recklessness around in our streets, waving stupid signs

9. They won't believe their own doctors, and the world's leading scientists, but they will believe some eejit called <<Evaxtruthers>> spouting idiotic crap about 5 (letter after F) and Bill Gates on Facebook.

10. They are the people who are willing to risk their health and the health of others around them (I'm not sure if this is 100% accurate as I couldn't make out the text) with a deadly virus that has killed millions but reckon that the scientifically proven vaccines that...

11...can protect us all from that virus are "too risky.

They are "doing their own research", in the same way they presumably did the last time they got a tetanus shot.

Of course, when they actually end up fighting for their lives in hospital....

12...they're using their last breath to say they should have been vaccinated.

Well, the country has had enough of them. A survey this weekend found more than 3 out of 4 Irish people think the unvaccinated should be subject to COVID restrictions to combat rising case numbers.

13. They've made their decision so they can stay home with their nutty Facebook posts, while the rest of us get on with our lives. END

Joe undoubtedly has issues but has also been used by RTE to further their own propaganda as laid out by the government.

14. You know the drill 😊 I write these 🧵 in my spare time and would really appreciate if you could retweet the very 1st tweet. Likes are great but retweets are required to reach as large an audience as possible to expose what is really going on behind the scenes. Many thanks.

compile