1. Do You Want To See Some More Predictive Programming Prior To Covid ? (Part 2)

If you enjoyed Part 1 then Part 2 should be just up your street. In Part 2 of the 🧵 I've had to go deeper down the rabbit hole.

New 🧵 1/25

2. One of the reasons for the rabbit hole is that many of the examples have been buried and are quite hard to find. I have managed to discover some fascinating ones. Hopefully some of these will be new to you. Just in case you missed part 1 here it is.

3. In an 1981 episode of Barney Miller the Trilateral Commission Agenda was laid out in plain sight although couched in comedic fashion so nobody would take it seriously. Funny how accurate it was though.

4. They talk of putting puppets in positions of power with David Rockefeller calling the shots for a one world government as well as Henry Kissinger being involved.

5. By this stage I'm sure everyone is aware of social credit scores. They are the bedrock upon which China is presently built. To get a good understanding of it I wrote a thread on it a few months back with an accompanying 2 minute video just in case.

1. "What's One Of The End Games If Vaccine Passports Become Widespread"

There are multiple end games, this is just one of them. You only have to look to China to see what awaits western civilizations within a few years. The answer is simply "Social Credit Systems"

6. In a 2016 episode of Black Mirror we see a lady being refused to get on a flight because her social credit score wasn't high enough. You can also see others in the queue mocking her for not being a good citizen.

7. This all sounds familiar doesn't it with people viewing others suspiciously and snitching on them. You can also see in the clip the other passengers further reducing her score due to her behaviour. The same is happening in China right now.

8. Children's programmes and comics are also frequently targeted. In a 2017 Asterix comic, Asterix and the Chariot Race, it featured a ruthless Roman villain by the name of Coronavirus which is set in Italy.

9. I have to admit to liking the red and yellow of Coronaviruses outfit & chariot. There is also some other interesting symbolism as well.

10. An episode entitled "Kwarantined Crab," in Spongebob centers on a virus storyline. The Krusty Krab goes under emergency quarantine, but no one knows who carries the mysterious illness.

11. Nickelodeon though decided to pull the episode.

"We have decided to not air it due to sensitivities surrounding the global, real-world pandemic," a spokesperson for Nickelodeon told CNN Business.

12. It isn't the only time that "inappropriate" Covid programmes have been pulled. The same happened in Ireland with the launch of Amazon Prime's remake of Utopia. It was removed in October 2020 just as Ireland was entering level 5 lockdown

13. They did reinstate it eventually and I've watched it. Don't bother though as it is utter tripe. You can see the plot outline below. You might see some similarities over the last 18 months. The Channel 4 original version was made in 2013 with the same storyline.

Earth's population rises and resources are depleted. The plan consists of: (1) Convincing the world's population that there is an outbreak of a deadly new virus, (2) Once convinced of the narrative of the faux-pandemic, announce to the public the creation of a new vaccine, (3) Through the coordination between global elites and non-governmental organizations, governments move quickly to inject the world's population with this "vaccine," (4) Once the population is injected, it turns out that the vaccine is designed to sterilize almost all of those people that take it, causing the global population to drop from 7.8 billion to about 500 million, and ushering in a new era of plenty.

14. What was disturbing from it though was the storyline of twin girls getting the vaccine which actually did happen in one of the trials.

15. In Young Sheldon we see the germaphobic character, sensing the arrival of the flu season, excusing himself from class because he doesn't 'want to die'.

16. Later, he is seen watching the news on TV, wearing a mask, while the newsreader talks about a virus that originated in China that is particularly contagious among old people and children.

17. In another kids cartoon called Bing which is aimed at 2-6 year olds we see the characters asking for vaccinations and getting stickers in return. This episode was launched in 2019 prior to Covid.

Go to 27.30 to see it in action

18. I seem to remember people being offered ice cream, doughnuts, beer, fast foods, lottery tickets etc if they decide to get the jab. Some would call it an incentive, I prefer the word bribe.

19. A 2018 show on Netflix called “Smart Mark Zombies” is quite jaw dropping. I won’t ruin it for you but I do recommend you watch the really short video. You’ll probably need to watch it more than once. It will blow you away.

20. It isn't just English language programmes that have been used. In Korean Netflix drama My Secret Terrius, it predicted a weaponized coronavirus being unleashed upon the world. A doctor in the show warns of a flu-like coronavirus which attacks lungs

21. The 2011 Hollywood blockbuster Contagion speaks of a Coronavirus-like virus that begins spreading from China to spread to the rest of the world with the cause of infection being a bat!!

22. I'm sure it was just a coincidence that Professor Emma Teeling from Dublin gave a talk in 2020 at Davos on how to slow down the ageing process in humans using bats. Interestingly, WEF officials wouldn't allow reporters into Teeling's presentation.

irishtimes.com/business/econo...

23. Back to Contagion though. There was another interesting parallel. You could say that Dr Sanjay Gupta has been preparing for this role his whole life. Gupta is the multiple Emmy®-award winning chief medical correspondent for CNN

24. He featured in the 2011 film portraying a journalist asking some tough questions. Fast forward to 2020/2021 and he is the go-to-guy for all things COVID.

25. You know the drill 😊 I write these 🧵 in my spare time and would really appreciate if you could retweet the very 1st tweet. Likes are great but retweets are required to reach as large an audience as possible to expose what is really going on behind the scenes. Many thanks.
